In what must be one of the most contentious development plans in recent history, local car dealership Covert's plans to put one or two car dealerships on Highway 71 just East of the main entrance to Vail Divide and Falconhead West has stirred up a massive hornet's nest of reaction.

Located in the Bee Cave City's ETJ, the proposal is only subject to waste water, signage and some safety controls by the City. City rules on lighting, noise and even land use do not apply in the ETJ.

Multiple petitions and social media action groups have sprung up and the BeeCaveBee.com story last week has received more comments than any story in our 3+ year history except, perhaps - Planet K.

The original story is HERE and most of the social media activity can be viewed by visiting and joining BeeCaveBee on Facebook .

e or two car delerships on Highway 71 just East of the main entrance to Vail Divide and Falconhead West has stirred up a massive hornet's nest of reaction.

Located in the Bee Cave City's ETJ, the proposal is only subject to waste water, signage and some safety controls by the City. City rules on lighting, noise and even land use do not apply in the ETJ.

Multiple petitions and social media action groups have sprung up and the BeeCaveBee.com story last week has received more comments than any story in our 3+ year history except, perhaps - Planet K.

The original story is HERE and most of the social media activity can be viewed by visiting and joining BeeCaveBee on Facebook .